ABOUT THE FACULTY OF PHARMACY

The Faculty of Pharmacy was established in the year 2015 with B.Pharm degree course approved by Pharmacy Council of India (PCI), New Delhi, and has since been deeply rooted in classical pharmacy teaching and research. In 2019, Pharm.D Course was started and in the year 2020, M. Pharm program initiated with the specializations of Pharmaceutical Analysis, Pharmaceutics, and Pharmaceutical Chemistry. Additionally, the Faculty of Pharmacy offers both full-time and part-time Ph.D. programs. The discipline covers a broad range of teaching and research areas from pharmacokinetics, drug-receptor theory, molecular and cellular mechanisms of drug actions, disease-specific systems of pharmacy, drug modality development, pharmacogenetics, personalized medicine, drug development, clinical drug trial, adverse drug reactions and toxicology. Currently, FOP has a strong team of academic and research staff committed to excel in the pharmacy education and research missions. Many of our team members have hospital training/ community pharmacy training to support clinically-relevant education mission to our professional programs including all medical fields. Besides, the department is also well-positioned to train students from the life science program in basic and molecular pharmacy and toxicology, train them with skill development program, placement training program and equip them to become pharmaceutical drug industry and clinical drug trial professionals. Faculty of Pharmacy has collaborations with leading universities in Malaysia, Vietnam, Philippines etc.
